A Night of Summer in the Bush

Once again the weather gods smiled on the Hash, with a stunning spring evening. The pack assembled for Furkhand and Chastity's North Balgowlah experience. The athletes took off and were soon on a "bush break" between the houses and Manly dam. At the local high school the runners and walkers split with the runners off into the bush, followed by joggers Centrepont & Pay-ling amongst them. Some of the speedsters, including Cinderella, would be still cruising the sights of North Balgowlah if not for the local knowledge of super tracker Superglue, who led them off the golf course and down through some more great bush off Kirkwood.

After heading on down to Uranga (remember this is your scribes home turf) the usual Burnt Bridge creek track was found. A clever creek crossing had Mister Neat almost toppling in while the smart SCB PeeDub snuck round the corner and found trail once more. The runners and walkers split again and I noticed Philthy was keen on finding the bucket as he forged back up the hill. The locals found their way home in familiar territory. Not so the runners.

A rather dark check on Condoover reserve caught out more than one runner who did not find the steps. Changi and Jock spent more time on the soccer field than David Beckham until being rescued by the Trail Master (Music Man) (who had now found the trail again. White Shit who thought he knew every inch of the suburb forged a new four lane highway through impenetrable bush, leading poor Tartan Bed up a cliff. Very well done hares, even some of the sternest critics had favourable comments.

We were honoured to have the company of the world champion runner Tic Toc and enjoyed a great Australian meal, that even inspired comment from The Grape Ape and a "stay on" from Little Shit. Well done those amongst the marathoners, some running less than 42kms. Some of the 2000 team also attended wearing gear, including the hardworking President Calici, in his best volunteer ever shirt.
