

Posh News 2215 – 7th December 2009

Carefree's Birthday, was it a significant run?

The Run

Fairy Bower car park (the Moochers Sunday recreational walk area), was the venue. The runners and walkers took off thinking they knew all the trails on North Head, but there were surprises. Even locals like Superglue and Poly weren't sure and Muff, not having his guide dog to lead him, was totally lost.

With his friends, Little Shit and White Shit away E Shit was quite lonely as we passed the North Head Sewer Works. Marching on a trail which could have been the road to Mandalay (more of Burmese culture and food later) Saltpeter and Flying Scotsman found every one on back, before the latter injured his ankle.

Passing under arches and historic stone walls Jungle Jim and Centrepoint commented it certainly was an afternoon delight as the pack reached the Artillery Museum, where the real trail began.

Crossing the only road, we were led down a path to witness without a doubt "THE BEST VIEW IN THE WORLD". Sydney Harbour in all its glory and Pay-ling, Polish, Wrapper and Pee Dub stopped to witness the Royal Princess Star, passing through the heads on her way to Tahiti (a re scheduled departure for the Hash of course). The Grape Ape said we had ventured here 25 years ago, but dementia causes strange thoughts. After the marvellous scenic views, we bush bashed to the Quarantine Station and with no sign of Cream Puff (now back in Singapore) made our way back past the parade ground to Shelly beach and the wonderful cliff top views with a bucket (was there ice in it? God forbid - ed).

Bringing the caterers and family from Burma was a real plus wonderful gourmet food and even XXXX and King Arthur felt there was too much food especially the exotic Birthday Cake. Great natural amphitheatre dining (the committee chose a picnic on the grass rather than stuffy tables) will probably make this a regular dining experience. With the help of Carefree's five Fe-male friends (what did they have in common?), a very Happy Birthday night was had by all.

An Alternate view

Your Scribe did not get the benefit of a full run last night, and so was reduced to climbing to the highest point of the run and looking out to sea. Not that I wanted to be out on the horizon heading in another direction, but that was as far as the legs would commit.

Goanna, true to form as a loyal JM, did not bring the tables and chairs or lamps, and this meant that Carefree was delighted with the opportunity to let the Posh sit on the grass around the amphitheatre. He had been hoping this would eventuate. His confidence in the success of this experiment was such that he went out and bought a new Mercedes Benz in order to drive anybody home who did not want to stay for the Burmese feast he had organised.

Dinner was an elegant affair, witness the entrees, which were received well, except for King Arthur, who thought that was the dinner, and demanded more. Sorry. The main course stopped everybody, and few Hashers backed up for seconds. But wait, there was more. Birthday cake and ice cream. And all served under the stars at Shelley Beach. Sydney at its best. And no complaints. Except to Goanna who said he'd been working for 2 days without a break.....so what, the trailer awaits. Sleep next week.

There were 6 female attendees which Carefree had invited, and so they were invited to have a DD. No sooner were they sung to when they flung the beer over their shoulders. Except you, DDL. Disgraceful.

The committee were heard to be complimenting both the Hare and Goanna on their lack of foresight and organisation re the tables and chairs. Maybe we could do it again sometime.

On2
Your Scribe

Upcumming Runs

Run 2216 – 14/12/09

Hares : Changi & Pilko
Where : North end of McCallum Avenue, Berrilee, as per your Sydway
The Run: Brought to you by renowned exploratory bush run setters
Have you outlived your dick yet?

Run 2217 – 21/12/09

Hares : Music Man and the Flying Scot
Where: From Goannas Place – Sydway 236 B11
The Run: Special POSH ONLY Christmas run

Run 2218 – 29/12/09 Joint run (maybe with only Posh men?)
Or not watch this space