Seafood Extravaganza at Koola

The Run

It was Thursday night on a Monday night in Killara at Koola Park on a beautiful fine evening. After some debate about running on Tuesday with other hashes, a brave Calici decided the Posh would prevail Public holiday or not, Monday is a hashing night.

Thirty something hashmen turned up to run off some Christmas spirit and pudding. Leaving the park we headed down past the high school school and into the bush. Grape, looking somewhat grubby, decided he was exhausted, climbed into his car and went home.

This track has been voted the most picturesque hash run in Australia for the last eighteen years and many athletes like Furkhand and Mr Neat could see why. Breathtaking views, spectacular rivers, beaches and wonderful countryside to run in. Down we travelled to the river, where Cinders, Camilla, Nautilus and Pee Dub (showing new found speed to be with this group) were feeling the humidity so much that they were tempted to swim across to the beach but decided they might miss out on the prawns. Along the river even Tooth Fairy was a little disorientated and nearly took a wrong turn, going backwards can do that to you. Not so Boxkite who charged on up. On past Thinkers rock everyone, except Moishe, Superglue and Witch's Tit who were on a personal best mission, stopped to take in the serene spectacle.

Climbing up the hill XXXX, trying hard to catch Music Man, nearly destroyed his right running shoe by becoming hooked up with a large tree root and not having much sexual activity, was quite shaken. Back on the fire trail Carefree (back from QLD with Moonbeams and Lost & Found) saw a wallaby jumping past and Van Ordinaire spotted hungry bush turkey was seen dinning on the hare's flour. Yakkity and Scud sauntered home with not a drop of rain affecting the evening.

So back to the bucket to watch the superb sunset and enjoy the seafood feast. Last Card Louis, along with Khyber and Wrappa, left having been made a better offer, or at least that is what they would like us to believe .

David Centrepoint Stratton gave us his usual rundown on the latest SciFi and Hugh Grant movies and Larry Adler was on his cell phone planning his next bike ride.

The committee put on a lavish seafood banquet with superb salad and home made fruit salad, imagine the spread when Flying Scotsman's foot fully recovers and Frenchie finds his form. An errant Pomme visitor dropped by and was given a drink along with the usual miscreants.

A great night to enjoy the festive season.....
